

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Nos. 1 to 11 of A FLORA of NORTH AMERICA. Illustrated by coloured Figures, drawn from Nature. By W. P. C. BARTON, M. D. U. S. N. Professor of Botany in the University of Pennsylvania.

Advertisement by the Author.

The first numbers of this general and very extensive work on North American Botany, are offered to the patronage of the public. The design of it is obvious in this specimen. No one can doubt the importance of figures, particularly if they be coloured, in settling many of the doubts and confusions of nomenclatural Botany; more especially where these are enhanced by synonymous appellations. The descriptions of different botanists occasionally appear discordant, though relating to plants described by the same name, because two or more individuals, nearly allied to each other, but specifically distinct, have been severally in view. To remove such doubts and confusion, and to elucidate the whole of the Botany of North America, by a coloured figure of every plant, on the plan of the Flora Danica, is the design of the author. The greatest, and indeed often an insuperable difficulty in a work of this kind, arises from the necessity of the designer being botanically acquainted with the subjects of his pencil, or very much in the practice of botanical delineation: otherwise the drawings will be laborious and awkward, and destitute of the characteristic appearance of the plants. In this part of the work, the true delineation of what botanists term the habitus, or in other words, the prevailing character of plants, is particularly studied. Hence the gracefulness of a mere picture is often sacrificed to the physiognomy, or the natural formality or stiffness of the subject; and, as the figures will all be drawn by the author from living plants, guided by this care, he hopes, though executed with the greatest rapidity, that they will be found correct.

Regarding the necessity or usefulness of this undertaking, it may be proper to make this one remark:—In a country so rich with vegetable productions, constantly inviting the attention and investigation of foreign botanists, we ought not surely to be longer in want of a national work of reference, in which faithful drawings will be considered as incontrovertible authority.

3. A Number will be published on the first day of every month.
4. Price to subscribers, one dollar per No. payable on delivery.

Our country abounds with Scenery, comprehending all the varieties of the sublime, the beautiful, and the picturesque in nature, worthy to engage the skill of an Artist in their delineation; and as no well-executed work of this description has ever been produced, it is confidently hoped that the present will meet with due encouragement.

Mr. Shaw, whose merits in this line have been honoured with the commendation of Mr. West, is travelling through the different states, for the purpose of taking, on the spot, the best and most popular Views that can be selected. In the course of his tour he will visit nearly every State in the Union, being desirous of giving, as far as the limits of the work will admit, a specimen of the beauties of NATURE, in her most striking features, throughout this country.

The whole will be accompanied by appropriate letter-press, descriptive of each view, and will form one handsome volume. In this the curious will find ample acquisition, whether regarded as exhibiting to the learner, practical examples of the true principles of Painting, or as a standard of taste in the Fine Arts; while the elegant and the patriotic will discover in them abundant sources of innocent gratification and amusement, calculated to refine their pleasures, and to increase their admiration of the happy soil of their nativity!

CONDITIONS.

The work will be published in six numbers, each containing six Views, with occasional Vignettes. The size of the Views will be 11 by 15 inches; they will be printed on an extra fine paper, and coloured by hand, so as to resemble the original drawings.

The price of each number will be ten dollars, payable on delivery.

The succeeding numbers will be published at intervals of three months, until the whole is completed.

A NEW SYSTEM of CULTIVATION without Lime, or Dung, or Summer Fallows, as practised at Knowle-Farm, in the County of Sussex. By Major-General ALEXANDER BEATSON, late Governor of the Island of St. Helena, &c.—with 3 engravings. Price 62½ cents, sewed.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Philadelphia Society, for Promoting Agriculture.

The President having heretofore laid before the Society, and requested several of its members to read, and carefully to consider the contents of the work, hereinafter mentioned;—the following order was adopted, and a copy thereof directed to be furnished to Mathew Carey and Son—viz.

THE PHILADELPHIA SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING AGRICULTURE having seen, and several members having perused, and some of them having tried with approbation some of the implements described in "A New System of Cultivation without lime, or dung, or summer fallows, as practised at Knowle-Farm, in the County of Sussex. By Major-General Alexander Beatson, late Governor of the Island of St. Helena, &c." And this publication containing, in the opinion of the Society, important changes in the system of husbandry, many whereof are considered as improvements in agriculture, and well worthy of the attention of all practical farmers, who would be greatly benefited by experiments on the principles and practice therein promulgated, and if they did not find it profitable or practicable to adopt the whole, such parts might be selected as would be highly advantageous, even in the old system of cultivation; and Mathew Carey and Son having agreed to reprint the same, for sale at a moderate price, the Society agree, for their encouragement, to take sixty copies of such republication, being satisfied of the great public benefit which will be derived therefrom.

ROBERTS VAUX, Secretary.

TERMS.

I. This Atlas shall contain fifty-one maps, as in the foregoing list, all of which shall be well executed from the best and most recent authorities. The geographical part will be prepared by an eminent geographer, and the historical part by the gentleman who edited the former editions of Lavoisne.

II. The work will be executed in the same style as the Atlas of Lavoisne already published by M. Carey & Son.

III. The price to subscribers will be twenty dollars. To non-subscribers it will be raised.

IV. It is expected that the work will be completed and ready for delivery in the early part of the ensuing year, and will be forwarded to subscribers as soon as possible afterwards.

V. Persons obtaining subscribers for nine copies, and paying for them, shall be entitled to a copy gratis.

Induced by the very liberal patronage they have received for the two editions of Lavoisne's Historical Atlas, the publishers now submit to the public their proposals for a third edition, accompanied by an Atlas in which will be given maps of all the divisions of the Continent, accompanied by historical, chronological, and geographical information on the plan of Lavoisne. They pledge themselves that the maps shall be constructed from the most recent authorities, and well engraved; and they have engaged two gentlemen fully competent to the undertaking, who are now employed in the preparation of the historical and geographical parts of the work. Two of the maps, Nos. 2 and 14, are now considerably advanced, and will shortly be ready for exhibition as specimens of the execution.

When this work is completed, the two volumes will form the most complete system of Geography and History that has ever been published, and when it is considered that the whole, (122 maps,) will be furnished to subscribers for Forty-five dollars, (exactly the price of the London edition, containing 67 maps,) they believe it will be admitted that it is one of the cheapest books that has ever appeared in this country.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF LAVOISNE'S ATLAS.

Washington, 18th July, 1820.

DEAR SIR—In reply to your letter of this date, requesting my opinion of the general merits of "LE SAGE'S HISTORICAL ATLAS," and of the propriety of publishing in this country a correct translation of it, I take great pleasure in assuring you, that I consider it the most successful effort of the age, to facilitate the acquisition of historical, genealogical, chronological, and geographical information.

In this admirable work, the great events which, from the earliest ages, have changed the civil and political condition of man, and ultimately led to the existing state of human society, are not only described in strong and appropriate language, but so clearly and distinctly delineated upon maps, that the mind of the student, without an effort, comprehends, at a glance, their cause, the means employed in their accomplishment, and their remote effects. By this happy device, the senses are,—in a degree unknown to any other work of the same general nature,—employed in aid of the understanding and memory, and greatly advance the progress of the student.

I have, for several years, ardently wished that some enterprising individual would furnish the American youth with the means of profiting by this able work; and am happy that it has at last been undertaken by one whose talents and perseverance cannot fail to command the most complete success.

I remain, with sentiments of the highest respect, your most obedient servant,

WM. H. CRAWFORD.

The Rev. Mr. WEEMS.

Baltimore, Nov. 22d, 1820.

DEAR SIR—The reputation of LE SAGE's Atlas is too well established to require any certificate of merit from me; yet, since you desire it, I have no difficulty in stating my concurrence in the universal opinion of all who have examined the work, that it is one of great value, most happily conceived and ably executed. It is a luminous synopsis of all the great events of history, which are not only written to the understanding, but painted to the eye. It is an epitome of the history of the human family, from the creation of the world; which, by the ingenuity of Mr. Le Sage, has been brought under a single coup d'œil; the chronology most happily arranged, and the march of empire and revolution reduced to a geographical picture. The work is one of such incalculable advantage to the student of history, and of such constant practical utility as a work of reference, that I am much gratified with Mr. Carey's proposal to give an improved translation of it to the public, and very sincerely wish him the success which so well selected a publication deserves.

With great respect, I am, sir, your obedient servant,

WM. WIRT.

The Rev. Mr. WEEMS.

INDEX to the CHANCERY REPORTS, by R. BELT, Esq. In 1 vol. royal 8vo.

An American edition of the Reports of the younger Vesey, has, it is believed, been long desired by the profession. While the adjudications of the English common law courts, and even their hasty and unauthoritative decisions at Kini Prins, have been reprinted and widely circulated in this country, it is a matter of surprise that the judgments of the Courts of Equity should have so long remained inaccessible to the great majority of the members of the bar. It cannot be denied that an acquaintance with the law as it has been laid down of late years, on those branches which fall within the cognizance of the English Court of Chancery, however the system of administering equity may have been changed in some of the United States, is of great utility and interest. Within the period embraced by the Reports of Mr. Vesey, many very important cases have been decided, on subjects interesting in the present condition of the United States; a sufficient knowledge of which cannot be obtained through the medium of general treatises. Of the merits of the volumes now proposed to be republished, it is perhaps unnecessary to speak. The character of Mr. Vesey, as a most faithful and accurate reporter, the excellence of his arrangement, and the great importance of many of the decisions, have long been acknowledged. It may not be amiss, however, to add the following testimonial of the author of a late excellent work, on the principles of the Court of Chancery. "I cannot here deny myself the pleasure of remarking how greatly the profession is indebted to Mr. Vesey, jr. for his Reports of Cases in Chancery for a series of years. They are valuable for the judgment shown in the selection, and for their extraordinary fidelity."*

The very favourable reception by the profession of their proposals for publishing the Reports of the Younger Vesey, has induced the subscribers to extend their views, confident that the increased, and increasing importance of the Chancery Jurisdiction in the United States, affords sufficient prospect of succeeding in the important undertaking they now contemplate. Their experience as Booksellers has led to a knowledge of the difficulties which Gentlemen of the Bar encounter in forming complete libraries, and the enormous expense attending the importation of the works not reprinted in the United States, as well as the frequent disappointments experienced in procuring those of an early date, even when expense is disregarded. Heretofore the demand for Reporters in the Court of Chancery has been more readily supplied than at present; the state of property, questions of which alone, come before a Court of Chancery, has occasioned a limited demand, which has gradually increased as the augmented population of the country rendered the advantages of the jurisdiction daily more sensible. A circumstance which has operated to increase the difficulty of procuring the early reporters, by increasing the demand, is that of their superiority in point of authority. In many of the States, decisions of the Court of Chancery in England, to the commencement of the American revolution, are considered as authority: those of a subsequent period are read, as illustrating the doctrines of the Court; but are not of authority, further than reason warrants, and are entitled to no more consideration than the adjudications of any other foreign tribunals. In some States, the reports of cases since the revolution are not permitted to be cited.

It is to be observed, that of many of the books herein offered for public patronage, it is extremely difficult, and sometimes impracticable, to procure copies from England; this is the case at present, with the Reports of Vernon, Atkyns, and Peere Williams.

To conclude—The subscribers believe that the series proposed to be published comprehends the most approved early reporters, and they have only omitted Barnardiston's Reports in Chancery, in consequence of the very little credit to which they are entitled in point of authority. The execution they pledge themselves shall be equal, if not superior, to that of any legal work heretofore reprinted in this country, and in all respects similar to that of the first five volumes of Vesey, jun's. Reports, which they have just published. The advantages to be derived from the addition of subsequent English and American cases, are sufficiently known to, and cannot fail to be duly appreciated by, the profession. Should the present proposals meet with the desired encouragement, the undertaking will be completed as soon as possible, and will place within the reach of the American Bar, at a moderate price, all that is essential of the great system of English Equity.

VIII.

REPORTS OF CASES argued and determined in the COURT of COMMON PLEAS, COURT of KING'S BENCH, and at NISI PRIUS.

PROSPECTUS.

Every practitioner and student of law must admit the utility of access to the decisions of the Courts of Common Law in England. The constant reference to the recent reports of that country in the arguments and decisions of the American courts, particularly on commercial topics; and the analogy that must necessarily subsist in questions arising in two countries, the principles of whose laws and forms of proceeding are in most respects the same, sufficiently evince the truth of this assertion. It is believed that every American jurist would desire to peruse and refer to the points decided in that as well as his own country, as early after their authentic publication as possible.

From the number of books of Reports annually published in England, and their great cost, there are few however who can procure them. Much of their contents consists of subjects foreign to the views, and useless to the researches, of the American jurist. Of this description are cases upon the annuity act, tithes, particular acts of Parliament, special customs, branches of law peculiar to the political and ecclesiastical organization of that country, and others that might be enumerated.

Under these circumstances, it is believed, that a selection may be made from the contents of the English Reports, to contain all that is valuable in them, and be compressed into a comparatively small compass. With this view M. Carey & Sons propose republishing the above works, and inserting only the name and marginal note of every case which shall not be deemed of sufficient interest to be retained at large; while all those cases which are in any way applicable to this country will be given in full. The advantage of this plan is, that it will enable them to furnish for the small sum of FIVE DOLLARS per annum, all the important contents of the English Reports, to purchase which would require at least forty dollars.

It is proposed to commence the work with the reports of cases argued and determined in the King's Bench and Common Pleas, and points decided at Nisi Prius, in the year 1820, and to continue it by a Quarterly publication of cases in the same courts subsequent to that year. From the arrangements the publishers have made for obtaining the English reports by the earliest opportunities, they presume it will be in their power to republish them here in the mode above mentioned, within four months after their appearance in England.

In order to complete the series, they intend to publish, upon the same plan, all those Reports of Cases in the above mentioned Courts which have not been published in this country. These Reports will make about three volumes 8vo. and will be published with as little delay as possible.

Vol. 1, will contain TAUNTON'S REPORTS, Vols. 5, 6, and 7.

HELEN DE TOURNON. A Novel. By Madame DE SOUZA, author of Adèle de Sénange, &c. Translated from the French.

"We know but two Works with which this Novel can properly be compared, the Princess de Cleves, of Madame la Fayette, and the Mademoiselle de Clermont, of Madame de Genlis. Without entering into any formal comparison between these two celebrated Works and the Novel before us, we shall merely say, that in our opinion, it is in every respect worthy to take its station by their side."—Edinburgh Review, No. 68.

XX.

THE POETICAL WORKS of BARRY CORNWALL, author of Mirandola. Containing,

1. MARCIAN COLONNA, an Italian Tale; with three Dramatic Scenes, and other Poems.

"If it be the peculiar province of Poetry to give delight, this Author should rank very high among our poets—and in spite of his neglect of the terrible passions, he does rank very high in our estimation. He has a beautiful fancy and a beautiful diction—and a fine ear for the music of verse, and great tenderness and delicacy of feeling."—Edinburgh Review, No. 68.

"There is an intense and passionate beauty, a depth of affection, in his little Dramatic Poems, which appear even in the affectionate triflings of his gentle characters. In the Vision, where he sees 'the famous Babylon,' in his exquisite Sonnets, and yet more in his Marcian Colonna, has he shown a feeling and a power for the elder venerableness of the poetic art, which, we are well assured, he is destined successfully to develope." Retrospective Review, August, 1820.

2. A SICILIAN STORY; with DIEGO DE MONTILLA, and other Poems.

"It is delightful to turn awhile from moral and political animosities to the unalloyed sweets of such poetry as Mr. Cornwall's; and to refresh our fancies and strengthen and compose our good affections, among the images of love and beauty, and gentle sympathy and sorrow, with which it every where presents us."—Edinburgh Review.

3. DRAMATIC SCENES, and other Poems.

"Mr. Cornwall is a writer of no ordinary genius.—None but a mind of exquisite tact and original power could, in our belief, have created so many fine things in the very spirit of the old Drama and of nature."—Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine.

DICTIONARY

NOW PUBLISHING IN PARIS,

To consist of about 30 volumes, 8vo. of 6 or 700 pages of close letter press, each with plates.—The 20th volume was published in July last.

This work is the production of a Society of Physicians and Surgeons, whose names are affixed, among whom are the most eminent Professors and Masters of the European, and principally of the French School. It is considered, at the present state of medical science, as a complete Medical Encyclopedia. It is computed that it will form about 30 volumes, 8vo.

M. Carey and Son have made with the publisher a contract, by which they will be able to supply those gentlemen who become subscribers, with the 20 volumes now published, and every succeeding volume. The price of the work is not more than one-third of what it would be if published in England or America. It is believed that its being written in French will be an objection with but few of our medical gentlemen, most of them reading that language familiarly.

The 20 volumes now published will be delivered at 50 dollars, and the succeeding ones as published, at $2 50 cents per volume. M. Carey and Son expect to receive them by one of the first spring vessels from France.

"This volume is divided into fourteen chapters, comprehending the history of Louisiana and the Floridas; their geography, government, laws, commerce, and manufactures, learning, and religion. The character of the Louisianians, the state of slavery amongst them, the antiquities, the rivers, and mineral riches of that country; a description of the aborigines, and the arguments in favour of the conjecture that this country was settled by emigration from Wales, anterior to the discovery of Columbus, conclude the volume.

"The style, although it assumes the character of humble narrative, is pure and chaste, and we cordially congratulate the author on the hardihood of character he has assumed, for such undoubtedly it is, in the present day, to be so unclassical as to write common sense."

"This little volume is designed for an introduction into schools, and as it contains many interesting anecdotes of Washington, and is written in a style very fascinating to the young, it will have an extensive circulation.

"It has been a subject of just complaint, that in the lives of Washington, which have appeared, there has been so little of Biography, and so much of history, that we behold him only on the stage of public action, and are not permitted to see him in the private walks of life. Mr. Weems comes forward to supply this deficiency. He has collected a number of facts, particularly relating to the childhood and youth of the American sage, and has presented them to the public, in such an interesting, and, frequently, comic dress, that it will require the most immoveable gravity of disposition, to preserve a composure of muscles, in reading this book. With this inimitable talent for humour, it is a happy circumstance, that the author has a higher object than a laugh. He perceives the value of religion, and he wishes to recommend it by the example of Washington."

°. To those who would look into futurity, and see the probable results of the Congress of Vienna, the recent work of M. De Pradt will be an acceptable wand. It will enable the inquisitive politician to judge, with some reasonable accuracy, whether the present condition of Europe be settled on a peace or a war establishment.

Fifteen thousand copies of this interesting work have been sold in France during the short space of a few weeks, but it is now suppressed, by order of the French government. It develops very important facts, connected with the present and future condition of the continental states.

"Dr. Hamilton has performed a most important service to his country, by directing the public attention to just views of this interesting subject.

"We have now stated the principal doctrines of this interesting publication. They are widely different from the opinions which have been hitherto prevalent and which are sanctioned by the authority of great names: but they are supported by arguments which appear so convincing, and they lead to practical conclusions of such importance, that we trust they will be patiently and thoroughly canvassed; and we have no apprehension that the result will be unfavourable either to the author or his reviewer. While he condescends to instruct the young student in the first principles of this important subject, he opens views which deserve the attention of the most experienced statesman.

- The alarming views of the relations, present and future, between the United States and Great Britain, which are developed in this work, have impressed the American publisher with the idea that it could not fail to be useful to re-print and disseminate it here. It merits the most serious attention of the legislators and politicians of this nation. Should the policy it advocates be unfortunately adopted by Great Britain, there will be an imperious necessity for measures of counteraction.

The plates will be coloured by his own hand, and are promised to be true imitations of nature. The letter-press will contain a systematic or botanical description of the plant, a general description, and a history of such medical properties as are worth describing. The economical uses of the plants will also be particularly mentioned.

This lively and entertaining View of the State of Society in Paris, at the most eventful period of its annals, obtained great celebrity in that city, and has been unanimously accorded a high rank among the periodical productions of French literature. The amusements, annoyances, pleasures, and discomforts of a Paris fashionable life, are sketched with a humorous and witty hand; nor has there ever issued from the press of that country, a more animated and close imitation of our own exquisite Spectator.

"For those who are disinclined or unable to go and make the tour of Paris, we know of no better fire-side telescope, (or rather camera obscura), for viewing it, than that which is presented in the panoramic sketches of the Paris Spectator."
